My biography

So, let me introduce myself. My name is Pavel, my surname is Demidoff. I'm 19 years old man. As you might have already understood, I'm a student.

I study at the Donbass State Engineering Academy. People say that I'm very respectful, sociable, flexible and caring. I hope that all these characteristics can help me to become a good specialist. I'm absolutely sure, that when I complete my degree, I might get the opportunity to start a stable and fantastic career .

I grew up in a happy family. I had an elder brother and two little sisters and this brightened my childhood, as we were always together. It helped me to learn how to communicate and collaborate with people even if I don't want to do it. My parents had perfect stable careers and this provided us with more opportunities to get everything we wanted: expensive toys, new gadgets, brand clothes and travelling. When I was younger I played piano and my parents wanted me to become a great pianist.

As for my interests, I devote much time to coin collecting. Moreover, some years ago I started to write a fantasy novel in George Martin's style. I suppose that when I finish it, the novel becomes a bestseller of a year. I also like computer games and good rock music.

I'm very sociable, that's why I have a lot of friends and a lovely girlfriend. It would be a mistake to say that I'm the life and the sole of the party, but my friends try to stay in touch with me anytime and share their secrets with me. I'm a smart and a handsome young man and people like me. I highly appreciate this and always give feedback.

Education in Ukraine

Ukraine produces the fourth largest number of academic graduates in Europe. There is nearly 100% literacy in Ukraine. 11 years of schooling is mandatory. As a rule schooling begins at the age of 6. The Ukrainian education system is organised into five levels preschool, primary, secondary, higher and postgraduate education. Schools receive 50% of their funding from the city budget and 50% from the national Government budget. Primary and secondary education is divided into “younger”, “middle” and “senior” schools. The objective of general schooling is to give younger students knowledge of the arts and sciences, and teach them how to use it practically. The middle school curriculum includes classes in the Ukrainian language, Ukrainian literature, a foreign language, world literature, Ukrainian history, world history, geography, algebra, geometry, biology, chemistry, physics, physical education, music and art. At some schools students also take environment and civics classes. Potential graduates are scheduled to undergo external independent testing after the final state examination, in the following subjects: Ukrainian language and literature, history of Ukraine, mathematics, biology, physics, chemistry, geography and a foreign language. The results of the testing have the same status as entrance examinations to institutions of higher education.

Higher education is either state funded or private. Students studying at state expense receive a standard scholarship if their average marks at the end-of-term exams and tests are at least 4 (according to the 5-point grade system). There are two degrees conferred by Ukrainian universities: Bachelor's Degree (4 years) and Master's Degree (5-6th year). These degrees are introduced in accordance with Bologna process in which Ukraine is taking part. Historically, Specialist's Degree (usually 5 years) is still also granted. Upon obtaining a Master's degree or a Specialist, a student may enter a university or a scientific institute to pursue postgraduate education. The first level of postgraduate education results in the Candidate of Sciences. Candidates must pass three qualifying exams (in the field of specialty, a foreign language and in Philosophy), publish at least three scientific articles, write a dissertation and defend it. This Degree is roughly equivalent to the Ph.D. in the United States. After graduation a student may continue postgraduate education for a Doctor of Sciences Degree.

Friendship

One of the most valuable things in life is friendship. It is extremely important for people to have someone, who they can trust. It isn't difficult to find friends, but not everyone can stay for a lifelong period. Those, who stay, become the closest people for us. Usually people meet, get acquainted, communicate and as a result become friends. However, only time can show, whether the friendship is strong or not.

For me friendship is not only communication, but support, understanding and sympathy. If your friends are real, they never betray you, they never leave you in trouble, they always listen to your problems and try to help when needed.

I have lots of good friends, but two of them are the best. Their names are Louisa and Cathy. I can always rely on them and share my thoughts with them. We spend lots of time together. I simply can't imagine life without these people. They make my life brighter and more interesting. When I'm bored, I can always phone my friends and ask them to come over. Sometimes we go to the cinema, sometimes to the theatre or to the museum. For me they are a part of my family. I fully trust them and I know that they would do anything for me. For example, Louisa has once saved my life. When we were both eleven, we went to swim in the lake. While we were swimming, I had a leg cramp. Nobody noticed that I couldn't swim to the shore, but Louisa did and she helped me to get out. Such things can happen to anyone, so we always try to be caring and attentive to each other.

I know that it's not easy to find a real friendship. I have met lots of false friends as well. So, now I try to appreciate the relations I have with my true friends.

I. 1. Read the text and be ready to discuss it

Healthy life expectancy is shorter in the UK than abroad

People in the UK enjoy fewer years of good health before they die than the citizens of most comparable European countries as well as Australia and Canada, a major report shows. The health secretary, Jeremy Hunt, said Britain's performance was "shocking" compared with that of other countries, and called for action to turn it around by local health commissioners, who are about to take up their new responsibilities.

The UK ranked 12th out of 19 countries of similar affluence in 2010 in terms of healthy life expectancy at birth, according to a detailed analysis from the Global Burden of Disease data collected by the Institute for Health Metrics and Evaluation (IHME) in Seattle. While life expectancy has improved by 4.2 years in the UK over the two decades, other countries have improved faster. In 2010, Spain topped the league. Its people could expect 70.9 years of healthy life – before disease and disability began to take a toll. Second came Italy, with 70.2 years and third was Australia, on 70.1 years. In the UK, we can expect 68.6 healthy years of life.

Hunt said the UK was a long way behind its global counterparts and called for action by local health commissioners to tackle the five big killers – cancer, heart disease, stroke, respiratory and liver diseases. He will on Tuesday announce a strategy to tackle cardiovascular disease, which he says could save 30,000 lives a year. "Despite real progress in cutting deaths, we remain a poor relative to our global cousins on many measures of health, something I want to change," he said. But the problem is only in part to do with hospital care – much of it is about the way we live. Our diet, our drinking and continuing smoking habits all play a part, according to one of the report's authors, Prof John Newton, chief knowledge officer of Public Health England, which assumes its responsibilities on 1 April.

It must be worth looking to see how Italy and Greece (at 11th, just ahead of the UK) can do better than us in spite of their economic and political problems, he said. It was not difficult to get fresh fruit and olive oil in the UK. "It is more the propensity not to stuff yourself with all the wrong things, which we are rather good at," he said. Drinking and drug use have been the main issues behind the worsening of the UK's ranking in early deaths among adults aged 20-54. In 2010, drugs were the sixth leading cause of death in this age group and alcohol was 18th – up from 32nd and 43rd place respectively 20 years earlier. As people live longer, disability is becoming an ever-bigger issue. In 2010, mental and behavioural disorders (mainly depression, anxiety, drug and alcohol use, schizophrenia and bipolar disorder), and musculoskeletal disorders (mainly lower back pain and falls) were responsible for more than half of all years lived with disability in the UK. They can arrange a party or go out, for example, go to a disco or some club. Generally they do it to have fun or to have a good time.

When people have nothing to do they easily get bored. As a rule, boredom is an awful state which can lead to depression. That is why it is necessary to get yourself occupied.

Nowadays the most common activity to get rid of boredom is surfing the Internet. This mass media offers a lot of opportunities for entertainment. #### I. 1. Read the text and be ready to discuss it

It's Not Having What You Want. It's Wanting What You've Got

“Wealth consists not in having great possessions but in having few wants” is one of my favorite quotes. Having few wants is probably the best insurance against greediness because it's human nature to keep wanting more, and the more you have, the more you want.

It's a simple psychological process: you have the basics (shelter, food, clothes) and are fairly happy, although you do worry about dealing with emergency situations; you become wealthier, and you enjoy the extra luxuries very much for a few months, but then it becomes your new “normal.” Now, surrounded by wealthier people, you look around, and you feel unhappy. They have more than you. You want more. But when you get more, you're unhappy again.

It's a never-ending cycle and this is what explains why so many ultra-wealthy celebrities keep doing commercials. They have so much, but they always want more. They never get to a point where, if offered a million dollars for doing a commercial, they simply say, "You know what? No, thank you. I have enough."

Unit 10. The media. Present Continuous

I. Read the text

"In the world of information and communication".

The mass media play an important part in our lives. Newspapers, radio and especially TV inform us of what is going on in this world and give us wonderful possibilities for education and entertainment. They also influence the way we see the world and shape our views.

Of course, not all newspapers and TV programmes report the events objectively, but serious journalists and TV reporters try to be fair and provide us with reliable information.

It is true that the world today is full of dramatic events and most news seems to be bad news. But people aren't interested in ordinary events. That is why there are so many programmes and articles about natural disasters, plane crashes, wars, murders and robberies. Good news doesn't usually make headlines. Bad news does.

Some people say that journalists are given too much freedom. They often intrude on people's private lives. They follow celebrities and print sensational stories about them which are untrue or half-true. They take photos of them in their most intimate moments. The question is - should this be allowed?

The main source of news for millions of people is television. People like TV news because they can see everything with their own eyes. And that's an important advantage. Seeing, as we know, is believing. Besides, it's much more difficult for politicians to lie in front of the cameras than on the pages of newspapers.

Still, many people prefer the radio. It's good to listen to in the car, or in the open air, or when you do something about the house.

Newspapers don't react to events as quickly as TV, but they usually provide us with extra detail, comment and background information.

The Internet has recently become another important source of information. Its main advantage is that news appears on the screen as soon as things happen in real life and you don't have to wait for news time on TV.

2. Read and write only from 1-3 missing words in these gaps where necessary.

Unit 12. The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland. Future Continuous

I. 1. Read the text and be ready to discuss it

The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland is situated on the British Isles and consists of four parts: England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland. The capital of England and the UK is London, the capital of Wales is Cardiff, the capital of Scotland is Edinburgh and the capital of Northern Ireland is Belfast.

The English Channel and the Straits of Dover separate Great Britain from the continent. The territory of the UK is about 244,000 sq.km. The population is about 60 mln. About 80 % of the population is urban.

The UK is a constitutional monarchy and the Queen is the head of the state. But the monarchy is a mere formality. In practice the country is governed by the elected government with a Prime Minister at the head.

There are three main political parties in the in the UK: Labour, Conservative and Liberal Democrats.

Great Britain is not rich in natural resources. Many of Britain's most valuable and accessible deposits have been worked out. The absence of high-grade iron ore, manganese, chrome, nickel and many other rare metals has always made the British economy greatly dependent on imported raw materials. There are significant amounts of coal, zinc, copper, lead and tin. Many non-metallic minerals are found in Britain: clay, chalk, sand and gravel, limestone, slate, dolomite, gypsum, common salt, rock salt and others.

With the discovery of oil and natural gas in the North Sea the country has become self-sufficient in energy.

In spite of the lack of some important raw materials and problems connected with the balance trade deficit, the UK is one of the most highly industrialized countries in the world.

Unit 15. Higher education in Great Britain and the USA. Future Perfect

I. 1. Read the text and be ready to discuss it

Pupils going on to higher education or professional training usually take «A» level examinations in two or three subjects. Universities accept students mainly on the basis of their «A» level results, although they may interview them as well. In 1971 the Open University was started, where these formal qualifications are not necessary. Nearly a quarter of all adult part-time students follow its degree courses on radio and television.

There are forty-seven universities in Britain and thirty former polytechnics (now also universities), plus 350 colleges and institutes of higher education (some of which train teachers).

Undergraduate courses normally take three years of full-time study, although a number of subjects take longer, including medicine, architecture and foreign languages (where courses include a year abroad). They lead in most cases to a Bachelor's degree in Arts or Science. There are various postgraduate degrees, including Master and Doctor of Philosophy. The last two are awarded for research in arts or sciences.

Degrees are awarded either by the institution itself, or by the Council for National Academic Awards, particularly in vocational areas. Students of law, architecture and some other professions can take qualifications awarded by their own professional bodies instead of degrees.

At present, students who have been accepted by universities or other institutions of higher education receive a grant from their local authority, which covers the cost of the course, and may cover living expenses. Parents with higher incomes are expected to make a contribution. Until 1990 the grant did not have to be paid back, but now a system of loans has been introduced.

The most famous universities are Oxford and Cambridge, called «Oxbridge». They are famous for their academic excellence.

- A. DIFFERENT SUBJECTS 5

1. Oxford University has been a centre of learning for over 900 years. Today, there are over 16,000 people studying at Oxford, but they are not all British. About 4,000 of them come from other countries. In fact, there are currently students from over 130 countries studying there. Every student at Oxford is a member of a 'college'. There are 39 main colleges, and each college is in a different part of the town.

2. What's the best age for a child to learn how to read? Some people believe that children should learn at as young an age as possible. Because of this, some parents start teaching their children when they are about three years old. Other people believe it's better for a teacher at school to teach a class of children how to read, so many children don't learn to read until they are five or six years old.

3. In most countries, you are only allowed to drive a car on a public road if you have a driving licence. You usually have to pass a driving test in order to get the licence. In European countries, this test is in two parts. The first part is a 'theory' test. You have to answer questions about road safety. The second part is a 'practical' test. You are in a car with an examiner, who tells you where to drive and asks you to do various things, such as parking or reversing around a corner

4. When was Mozart born? What's the capital of Nigeria? Before the Internet, if we wanted to find out the answers to these questions, we'd have to look them up in reference books, such as encyclopaedias. If we couldn't find the information in books at home, we'd have to go to a public library. This kind of research would often take a very long time. Now, however, as long as you have a computer connected to the Internet, you can find the answers to questions like these in seconds.

5. Although people sometimes confuse astronomy and astrology, they are completely different. Astronomy is the scientific study of the universe. Astronomers study stars, planets and other things in space, such as comets, and record their findings scientifically. Astrology, which is based on the belief that the position of the planets affects human behaviour, is not a science. It is astrologers who write horoscopes in magazines, telling us what they think is going to happen to us in the future.

Unit 17 Scientific and technological progress. Passive Voice

I. 1. Read the text and be ready to discuss it

The basis of scientific and technical progress of today is new informational technology which is very different from all the previous technologies. Thanks to up-to-date software and robots new informational technologies can make many processes much faster and transmit information more quickly. It is important today because the quantity of information grows rapidly. New informational society has its peculiarities. Firstly, more and more employees work in the sphere of service and information. Secondly, more and more huge databases appear to collect and store the information. And finally, information and IT become goods and start playing important part in the country's economy. These processes affect social structures and values.

It becomes important to learn to get new knowledge quickly and sometimes to change your qualification. IT can first lead to unemployment, but later create even more workplaces especially for highly qualified professionals. While the hardest work can be performed by robots and routine calculations by computers, in the future people with the most creative mind and numerous fresh ideas will get better career chances.

On one hand technology development gives more access to professional and cultural information and leads to new forms of individual enterprises. But on the other hand there is a danger of total control of private life unless special laws are enforced by the government.

Another danger is «intellectual terrorism» when computer viruses block important programs.

There are other directions of technical and scientific progress of today. One of them is the development of new ecologically clean sources of energy using sun, gravitation, winds or rain. New kind of transports and new agricultural methods that do not harm our nature are being developed today. Breakthroughs in science have led to creation of artificial viruses for new medicines and products, body organs for transplantation and productive soils for growing vegetables and crops. Many new materials and technologies are being used in our everyday life.

All these innovations may have influence on our life, social relations and globally on our Earth. The influence can be very different: from psychological and health problems of children who spend too much time online to an opportunity to prevent genetic diseases for future generations. But the most difficult problems the humanity faces are global problems. The first and foremost is ecological problem: pollution of air, water and soil, exhaustion of natural resources. Renewable natural resources such as oxygen, forests, flora and fauna do not have enough time to regenerate. This leads to different changes in climate and nature such as depletion of ozone layer and other things that has not been properly studied by scientists yet. Other crucial problems include wars, epidemics, and demographic problems. The only way to solve them is to work globally and in cooperation with other countries. And here the humanity should find a way to use new technologies for the common good. The solution of these problems cannot be postponed because otherwise people will have fewer chances to survive on this planet.

The Problem of Environmental Protection in Great Britain

Environmental protection is an international issue of great importance and Great Britain pays much attention to it. There are nearly 500 000 protected buildings and 7000 conservation areas of architecture of historical interest in Britain. The Government supports the work of the voluntary sector in preserving the national heritage.

Total emissions of smoke in the air have fallen by 85 per cent since 1960. Most petrol stations in Britain stock unleaded petrol. The Government is committed to the control of gases emission, which damage the ozone layer.

They also contribute to the greenhouse effect, which leads to global warming and a rise in sea levels. Britain stresses the need for studying the science of climate change.

Green belts are areas where land should be left open and free from urban sprawl. The Government attaches great importance to their protection. National parks cover 9 per cent of the total land area of England and Wales. The National Rivers Authority protects island waters in England and Wales.

In Scotland the River purification authorities are responsible for water pollution control. Great Britain takes care of it's environment for themselves and next generations.

Unit 20. Tolerance and justice. The Gerund

I. 1. Use in the correct order:

1. Tolerance can be shown in many ways, not only in agreeing with things that contradict your vision of life. For example, one person can disagree with others on any issues, but at the same time respect their opinion and treat with dignity. In this case he or she shows tolerance. It means that disagreement doesn't always apply to intolerance.

2. In my opinion, children should be taught tolerance from the very young age. If everyone was at least partially tolerant, the world would be a much better place to live in.

3. Tolerance is an important quality that helps us to put up with differences. It helps people to be patient and understanding to those who have different views, standards of living, religion, race, nationality, etc. Perhaps, it's the only virtue that holds back from global conflicts.

4. Tolerance is a highly useful quality indeed. Intolerance, on the contrary, can lead to many horrible acts. For example, Cain killed Abel because he couldn't bear that his elder brother was important in the eye of God. This is only one of many example of intolerance in the course of history and mythology.

5. Unfortunately, not everyone is tolerant in this world. Tolerance is often one-sided. While you show respect and understanding of other people's vision of life, they can ignore yours and try to reassure you that you are on the wrong side. Usually ill-mannered people behave in such a way. I think that tolerance is necessary in any civilized society. However, it would be wrong to believe that all people can achieve compromise on any debated issue. Accepting different points of view is a learned attribute. It takes to time and commitment to develop this skill.
